

JOB INTERVIEW

Finally, do you have any questions to ask me?

- Express thanks
- Job timing
- Overtime allowance
- Job Location
- Timing period
- Salary structure
- Transport facility

Example:

Thank you for giving me this opportunity. Sir, I would like to know job timing & transport facility & where will be the job location & salary scale for this job in your organization?

Don't	Do
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Uh no, I don't have any questions.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What can I help you to clarify that would make hiring me an easy decision?</li> <li>• At last, shake hands and say thanks with a genuine smile.</li> </ul>

Muhammad Mas... • 3rd+

Virtual Assistant ...

Request services

4d •

Follow

Very informative

Like | Reply

Ngo My Tam • 3rd+

Sales Assistant tại Tianrui Electronics C...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Like • 1 | Reply

Nguyen Bich Phuong • 3rd+

Sales Executive tại Dongtai Environmen...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Like • 1 | Reply

Salma K • 3rd+

5h

--
I hate the first question because by the time you have my cv full of information what more do you really want to know from me and hence you have my resume? it's too uniform HR's should be more creative at least go straight to the competence,skills and experience history will be more effective. And I don't see the importance of replying to your location in the interview when you seek for a job and get ready to be relocated.

Like • 1 | Reply

Alok Khare • 3rd+

49m

I help tech & non-tech professionals ...
Confidence is built not just by preparing answers but by seeing interviews as two way conversations where you showcase your unique value.

Like | Reply

Zehaad Isaacs • 3rd+

11h

Highly experienced ELT specialist (15+...)
Ooh. Those traditional introductory questions like "Tell me about yourself" or "Introduce yourself" have become somewhat outdated. Here's why:
They don't reveal much about skills or fit:
1. CV already provides basic info
2. Rehearsed responses: Many candidates prepare a standard elevator pitch to answer these questions, which may not provide genuine insight into their thoughts, experiences, or problem-solving skills.
Why do companies still think these questions are insightful?

Like • 3 | Reply

Vo Thanh Dao • 3rd+

12h

Sales Consultant tại Ruitian Pharmace...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Like • 2 | Reply

Load more comments

JOB INTERVIEW

Finally, do you have any questions to ask me?

- Express thanks
- Job timing
- Overtime allowance
- Job Location
- Timing period
- Salary structure
- Transport facility

Example:

Thank you for giving me this opportunity. Sir, I would like to know job timing & transport facility & where will be the job location & salary scale for this job in your organization?

Don't	Do
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Uh no, I don't have any questions.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What can I help you to clarify that would make hiring me an easy decision?</li> <li>• At last, shake hands and say thanks with a genuine smile.</li> </ul>

Muhammad Mas... • 3rd+

Virtual Assistant ...

Request services

4d •

Very informative

Ngo My Tam • 3rd+

Sales Assistant tại Tianrui Electronics C...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Nguyen Bich Phuong • 3rd+

Sales Executive tại Dongtai Environmen...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Salma K • 3rd+

2h

I hate the first question because by the time you have my cv full of information what more do you really want to know from me and hence you have my resume? it's too uniform HR's should be more creative at least go straight to the competence, skills and experience history will be more effective. And I don't see the importance of replying to your location in the interview when you seek for a job and get ready to be relocated.

Alok Khare • 3rd+

49m

Confidence is built not just by preparing answers but by seeing interviews as two way conversations where you showcase your unique value.

Zehaad Isaacs • 3rd+

11h

Highly experienced ELT specialist (15+...)

Ooh. Those traditional introductory questions like "Tell me about yourself" or "Introduce yourself" have become somewhat outdated. Here's why:
 They don't reveal much about skills or fit:
 1. CV already provides basic info
 2. Rehearsed responses: Many candidates prepare a standard elevator pitch to answer these questions, which may not provide genuine insight into their thoughts, experiences, or problem-solving skills.
 Why do companies still think these questions are insightful?

Vo Thanh Dao • 3rd+

12h

Sales Consultant tại Ruitian Pharmace...

Thanks for sharing this resource

JOB INTERVIEW

Finally, do you have any questions to ask me?

- Express thanks
- Job timing
- Overtime allowance
- Job Location
- Timing period
- Salary structure
- Transport facility

Example:

Thank you for giving me this opportunity. Sir, I would like to know job timing & transport facility & where will be the job location & salary scale for this job in your organization?

Don't	Do
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Uh no, I don't have any questions.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What can I help you to clarify that would make hiring me an easy decision?</li> <li>• At last, shake hands and say thanks with a genuine smile.</li> </ul>

Muhammad Mas... • 3rd+

Virtual Assistant ...

Request services

4d •

Very informative

Ngo My Tam • 3rd+

Sales Assistant tại Tianrui Electronics C...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Nguyen Bich Phuong • 3rd+

Sales Executive tại Dongtai Environmen...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Salma K • 3rd+

2h

I hate the first question because by the time you have my cv full of information what more do you really want to know from me and hence you have my resume? it's too uniform HR's should be more creative at least go straight to the competence, skills and experience history will be more effective. And I don't see the importance of replying to your location in the interview when you seek for a job and get ready to be relocated.

Alok Khare • 3rd+

49m

Confidence is built not just by preparing answers but by seeing interviews as two way conversations where you showcase your unique value.

Zehaad Isaacs • 3rd+

11h

Highly experienced ELT specialist (15+...)

Ooh. Those traditional introductory questions like "Tell me about yourself" or "Introduce yourself" have become somewhat outdated. Here's why:
They don't reveal much about skills or fit:
1. CV already provides basic info
2. Rehearsed responses: Many candidates prepare a standard elevator pitch to answer these questions, which may not provide genuine insight into their thoughts, experiences, or problem-solving skills.
Why do companies still think these questions are insightful?

Vo Thanh Dao • 3rd+

12h

Sales Consultant tại Ruitian Pharmace...

Thanks for sharing this resource

JOB INTERVIEW

Finally, do you have any questions to ask me?

- Express thanks
- Job timing
- Overtime allowance
- Job Location
- Timing period
- Salary structure
- Transport facility

Example:

Thank you for giving me this opportunity. Sir, I would like to know job timing & transport facility & where will be the job location & salary scale for this job in your organization?

Don't	Do
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Uh no, I don't have any questions.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What can I help you to clarify that would make hiring me an easy decision?</li> <li>• At last, shake hands and say thanks with a genuine smile.</li> </ul>

Muhammad Mas... • 3rd+

Virtual Assistant ...

Request services

4d •

Very informative

Ngo My Tam • 3rd+

Sales Assistant tại Tianrui Electronics C...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Nguyen Bich Phuong • 3rd+

Sales Executive tại Dongtai Environmen...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Salma K • 3rd+

2h

I hate the first question because by the time you have my cv full of information what more do you really want to know from me and hence you have my resume? it's too uniform HR's should be more creative at least go straight to the competence, skills and experience history will be more effective. And I don't see the importance of replying to your location in the interview when you seek for a job and get ready to be relocated.

Alok Khare • 3rd+

49m

Confidence is built not just by preparing answers but by seeing interviews as two way conversations where you showcase your unique value.

Zehaad Isaacs • 3rd+

11h

Highly experienced ELT specialist (15+...)

Ooh. Those traditional introductory questions like "Tell me about yourself" or "Introduce yourself" have become somewhat outdated. Here's why:
They don't reveal much about skills or fit:
1. CV already provides basic info
2. Rehearsed responses: Many candidates prepare a standard elevator pitch to answer these questions, which may not provide genuine insight into their thoughts, experiences, or problem-solving skills.
Why do companies still think these questions are insightful?

Vo Thanh Dao • 3rd+

12h

Sales Consultant tại Ruitian Pharmace...

Thanks for sharing this resource

JOB INTERVIEW

Finally, do you have any questions to ask me?

- Express thanks
- Job timing
- Overtime allowance
- Job Location
- Timing period
- Salary structure
- Transport facility

Example:

Thank you for giving me this opportunity. Sir, I would like to know job timing & transport facility & where will be the job location & salary scale for this job in your organization?

Don't	Do
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Uh no, I don't have any questions.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What can I help you to clarify that would make hiring me an easy decision?</li> <li>• At last, shake hands and say thanks with a genuine smile.</li> </ul>

Muhammad Mas... • 3rd+

Virtual Assistant ...

Request services

4d •

Very informative

Ngo My Tam • 3rd+

Sales Assistant tại Tianrui Electronics C...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Nguyen Bich Phuong • 3rd+

Sales Executive tại Dongtai Environmen...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Salma K • 3rd+

2h

I hate the first question because by the time you have my cv full of information what more do you really want to know from me and hence you have my resume? it's too uniform HR's should be more creative at least go straight to the competence, skills and experience history will be more effective. And I don't see the importance of replying to your location in the interview when you seek for a job and get ready to be relocated.

Alok Khare • 3rd+

49m

I help tech & non-tech professionals ... Confidence is built not just by preparing answers but by seeing interviews as two way conversations where you showcase your unique value.

Zehaad Isaacs • 3rd+

11h

Highly experienced ELT specialist (15+...) Ooh. Those traditional introductory questions like "Tell me about yourself" or "Introduce yourself" have become somewhat outdated. Here's why:
They don't reveal much about skills or fit:
1. CV already provides basic info
2. Rehearsed responses: Many candidates prepare a standard elevator pitch to answer these questions, which may not provide genuine insight into their thoughts, experiences, or problem-solving skills.
Why do companies still think these questions are insightful?

Vo Thanh Dao • 3rd+

12h

Sales Consultant tại Ruitian Pharmace...

Thanks for sharing this resource

JOB INTERVIEW

Finally, do you have any questions to ask me?

- Express thanks
- Job timing
- Overtime allowance
- Job Location
- Timing period
- Salary structure
- Transport facility

Example:

Thank you for giving me this opportunity. Sir, I would like to know job timing & transport facility & where will be the job location & salary scale for this job in your organization?

Don't	Do
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Uh no, I don't have any questions.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What can I help you to clarify that would make hiring me an easy decision?</li> <li>• At last, shake hands and say thanks with a genuine smile.</li> </ul>

Muhammad Mas... • 3rd+

Virtual Assistant ...

Request services

4d •

Very informative

Ngo My Tam • 3rd+

Sales Assistant tại Tianrui Electronics C...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Nguyen Bich Phuong • 3rd+

Sales Executive tại Dongtai Environmen...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Salma K • 3rd+

2h

I hate the first question because by the time you have my cv full of information what more do you really want to know from me and hence you have my resume? it's too uniform HR's should be more creative at least go straight to the competence, skills and experience history will be more effective. And I don't see the importance of replying to your location in the interview when you seek for a job and get ready to be relocated.

Alok Khare • 3rd+

49m

I help tech & non-tech professionals ... Confidence is built not just by preparing answers but by seeing interviews as two way conversations where you showcase your unique value.

Zehaad Isaacs • 3rd+

11h

Highly experienced ELT specialist (15+...)

Ooh. Those traditional introductory questions like "Tell me about yourself" or "Introduce yourself" have become somewhat outdated. Here's why:
They don't reveal much about skills or fit:
1. CV already provides basic info
2. Rehearsed responses: Many candidates prepare a standard elevator pitch to answer these questions, which may not provide genuine insight into their thoughts, experiences, or problem-solving skills.
Why do companies still think these questions are insightful?

Vo Thanh Dao • 3rd+

12h

Sales Consultant tại Ruitian Pharmace...

Thanks for sharing this resource

JOB INTERVIEW

Finally, do you have any questions to ask me?

- Express thanks
- Job timing
- Overtime allowance
- Job Location
- Timing period
- Salary structure
- Transport facility

Example:

Thank you for giving me this opportunity. Sir, I would like to know job timing & transport facility & where will be the job location & salary scale for this job in your organization?

Don't	Do
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Uh no, I don't have any questions.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What can I help you to clarify that would make hiring me an easy decision?</li> <li>• At last, shake hands and say thanks with a genuine smile.</li> </ul>

Muhammad Mas... • 3rd+

Virtual Assistant ...

Request services

4d •

Very informative

Ngo My Tam • 3rd+

Sales Assistant tại Tianrui Electronics C...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Nguyen Bich Phuong • 3rd+

Sales Executive tại Dongtai Environmen...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Salma K • 3rd+

2h

I hate the first question because by the time you have my cv full of information what more do you really want to know from me and hence you have my resume? it's too uniform HR's should be more creative at least go straight to the competence, skills and experience history will be more effective. And I don't see the importance of replying to your location in the interview when you seek for a job and get ready to be relocated.

Alok Khare • 3rd+

49m

I help tech & non-tech professionals ... Confidence is built not just by preparing answers but by seeing interviews as two way conversations where you showcase your unique value.

Zehaad Isaacs • 3rd+

11h

Highly experienced ELT specialist (15+...) Ooh. Those traditional introductory questions like "Tell me about yourself" or "Introduce yourself" have become somewhat outdated. Here's why:
They don't reveal much about skills or fit:
1. CV already provides basic info
2. Rehearsed responses: Many candidates prepare a standard elevator pitch to answer these questions, which may not provide genuine insight into their thoughts, experiences, or problem-solving skills.
Why do companies still think these questions are insightful?

Vo Thanh Dao • 3rd+

12h

Sales Consultant tại Ruitian Pharmace...

Thanks for sharing this resource

JOB INTERVIEW

Finally, do you have any questions to ask me?

- Express thanks
- Job timing
- Overtime allowance
- Job Location
- Timing period
- Salary structure
- Transport facility

Example:

Thank you for giving me this opportunity. Sir, I would like to know job timing & transport facility & where will be the job location & salary scale for this job in your organization?

Don't	Do
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Uh no, I don't have any questions.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What can I help you to clarify that would make hiring me an easy decision?</li> <li>• At last, shake hands and say thanks with a genuine smile.</li> </ul>

Muhammad Mas... • 3rd+

Virtual Assistant ...

Request services

4d •

Very informative

Ngo My Tam • 3rd+

Sales Assistant tại Tianrui Electronics C...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Nguyen Bich Phuong • 3rd+

Sales Executive tại Dongtai Environmen...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Salma K • 3rd+

2h

I hate the first question because by the time you have my cv full of information what more do you really want to know from me and hence you have my resume? it's too uniform HR's should be more creative at least go straight to the competence, skills and experience history will be more effective. And I don't see the importance of replying to your location in the interview when you seek for a job and get ready to be relocated.

Alok Khare • 3rd+

49m

Confidence is built not just by preparing answers but by seeing interviews as two way conversations where you showcase your unique value.

Zehaad Isaacs • 3rd+

11h

Highly experienced ELT specialist (15+...)

Ooh. Those traditional introductory questions like "Tell me about yourself" or "Introduce yourself" have become somewhat outdated. Here's why:
They don't reveal much about skills or fit:
1. CV already provides basic info
2. Rehearsed responses: Many candidates prepare a standard elevator pitch to answer these questions, which may not provide genuine insight into their thoughts, experiences, or problem-solving skills.
Why do companies still think these questions are insightful?

Vo Thanh Dao • 3rd+

12h

Sales Consultant tại Ruitian Pharmace...

Thanks for sharing this resource

JOB INTERVIEW

Finally, do you have any questions to ask me?

- Express thanks
- Job timing
- Overtime allowance
- Job Location
- Timing period
- Salary structure
- Transport facility

Example:

Thank you for giving me this opportunity. Sir, I would like to know job timing & transport facility & where will be the job location & salary scale for this job in your organization?

Don't	Do
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Uh no, I don't have any questions.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What can I help you to clarify that would make hiring me an easy decision?</li> <li>• At last, shake hands and say thanks with a genuine smile.</li> </ul>

Muhammad Mas... • 3rd+

Virtual Assistant ...

Request services

4d •

Very informative

Ngo My Tam • 3rd+

Sales Assistant tại Tianrui Electronics C...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Nguyen Bich Phuong • 3rd+

Sales Executive tại Dongtai Environmen...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Salma K • 3rd+

2h

I hate the first question because by the time you have my cv full of information what more do you really want to know from me and hence you have my resume? it's too uniform HR's should be more creative at least go straight to the competence, skills and experience history will be more effective. And I don't see the importance of replying to your location in the interview when you seek for a job and get ready to be relocated.

Alok Khare • 3rd+

49m

I help tech & non-tech professionals ... Confidence is built not just by preparing answers but by seeing interviews as two way conversations where you showcase your unique value.

Zehaad Isaacs • 3rd+

11h

Highly experienced ELT specialist (15+...)

Ooh. Those traditional introductory questions like "Tell me about yourself" or "Introduce yourself" have become somewhat outdated. Here's why:
They don't reveal much about skills or fit:
1. CV already provides basic info
2. Rehearsed responses: Many candidates prepare a standard elevator pitch to answer these questions, which may not provide genuine insight into their thoughts, experiences, or problem-solving skills.
Why do companies still think these questions are insightful?

Vo Thanh Dao • 3rd+

12h

Sales Consultant tại Ruitian Pharmace...

Thanks for sharing this resource

JOB INTERVIEW

Finally, do you have any questions to ask me?

- Express thanks
- Job timing
- Overtime allowance
- Job Location
- Timing period
- Salary structure
- Transport facility

Example:

Thank you for giving me this opportunity. Sir, I would like to know job timing & transport facility & where will be the job location & salary scale for this job in your organization?

Don't	Do
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Uh no, I don't have any questions.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What can I help you to clarify that would make hiring me an easy decision?</li> <li>• At last, shake hands and say thanks with a genuine smile.</li> </ul>

Muhammad Mas... • 3rd+

Virtual Assistant ...

Request services

4d •

Very informative

Ngo My Tam • 3rd+

Sales Assistant tại Tianrui Electronics C...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Nguyen Bich Phuong • 3rd+

Sales Executive tại Dongtai Environmen...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Salma K • 3rd+

2h

I hate the first question because by the time you have my cv full of information what more do you really want to know from me and hence you have my resume? it's too uniform HR's should be more creative at least go straight to the competence, skills and experience history will be more effective. And I don't see the importance of replying to your location in the interview when you seek for a job and get ready to be relocated.

Alok Khare • 3rd+

49m

Confidence is built not just by preparing answers but by seeing interviews as two way conversations where you showcase your unique value.

Zehaad Isaacs • 3rd+

11h

Highly experienced ELT specialist (15+...)

Ooh. Those traditional introductory questions like "Tell me about yourself" or "Introduce yourself" have become somewhat outdated. Here's why:
 They don't reveal much about skills or fit:
 1. CV already provides basic info
 2. Rehearsed responses: Many candidates prepare a standard elevator pitch to answer these questions, which may not provide genuine insight into their thoughts, experiences, or problem-solving skills.
 Why do companies still think these questions are insightful?

Vo Thanh Dao • 3rd+

12h

Sales Consultant tại Ruitian Pharmace...

Thanks for sharing this resource

JOB INTERVIEW

Finally, do you have any questions to ask me?

- Express thanks
- Job timing
- Overtime allowance
- Job Location
- Timing period
- Salary structure
- Transport facility

Example:

Thank you for giving me this opportunity. Sir, I would like to know job timing & transport facility & where will be the job location & salary scale for this job in your organization?

Don't	Do
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Uh no, I don't have any questions.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What can I help you to clarify that would make hiring me an easy decision?</li> <li>• At last, shake hands and say thanks with a genuine smile.</li> </ul>

Muhammad Mas... • 3rd+

Virtual Assistant ...

Request services

4d •

Very informative

Ngo My Tam • 3rd+

Sales Assistant tại Tianrui Electronics C...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Nguyen Bich Phuong • 3rd+

Sales Executive tại Dongtai Environmen...

Thanks for sharing this resource

Salma K • 3rd+

2h

I hate the first question because by the time you have my cv full of information what more do you really want to know from me and hence you have my resume? it's too uniform HR's should be more creative at least go straight to the competence, skills and experience history will be more effective. And I don't see the importance of replying to your location in the interview when you seek for a job and get ready to be relocated.

Alok Khare • 3rd+

49m

Confidence is built not just by preparing answers but by seeing interviews as two way conversations where you showcase your unique value.

Zehaad Isaacs • 3rd+

11h

Highly experienced ELT specialist (15+...)

Ooh. Those traditional introductory questions like "Tell me about yourself" or "Introduce yourself" have become somewhat outdated. Here's why:
They don't reveal much about skills or fit:
1. CV already provides basic info
2. Rehearsed responses: Many candidates prepare a standard elevator pitch to answer these questions, which may not provide genuine insight into their thoughts, experiences, or problem-solving skills.
Why do companies still think these questions are insightful?

Vo Thanh Dao • 3rd+

12h

Sales Consultant tại Ruitian Pharmace...

Thanks for sharing this resource

JOB INTERVIEW

Finally, do you have any questions to ask me?

- Express thanks
- Job timing
- Overtime allowance
- Job Location
- Timing period
- Salary structure
- Transport facility

Example:

Thank you for giving me this opportunity. Sir, I would like to know job timing & transport facility & where will be the job location & salary scale for this job in your organization?

Don't	Do
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Uh no, I don't have any questions.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• What can I help you to clarify that would make hiring me an easy decision?</li> <li>• At last, shake hands and say thanks with a genuine smile.</li> </ul>

 Muhammad Mas... • 3rd+
Virtual Assistant ...
Request services
4d •

Very informative

 Ngo My Tam • 3rd+
Sales Assistant tại Tianrui Electronics C...
8h
Thanks for sharing this resource

 Nguyen Bich Phuong • 3rd+
Sales Executive tại Dongtai Environmen...
5h
Thanks for sharing this resource

 Salma K • 3rd+
--
2h
I hate the first question because by the time you have my cv full of information what more do you really want to know from me and hence you have my resume? it's too uniform HR's should be more creative at least go straight to the competence, skills and experience history will be more effective. And I don't see the importance of replying to your location in the interview when you seek for a job and get ready to be relocated.

 Alok Khare • 3rd+
I help tech & non-tech professionals ...
49m
Confidence is built not just by preparing answers but by seeing interviews as two way conversations where you showcase your unique value.

 Zehaad Isaacs • 3rd+
Highly experienced ELT specialist (15+...
11h
Ooh. Those traditional introductory questions like "Tell me about yourself" or "Introduce yourself" have become somewhat outdated. Here's why:
They don't reveal much about skills or fit:
1. CV already provides basic info
2. Rehearsed responses: Many candidates prepare a standard elevator pitch to answer these questions, which may not provide genuine insight into their thoughts, experiences, or problem-solving skills.
Why do companies still think these questions are insightful?

 Vo Thanh Dao • 3rd+
Sales Consultant tại Ruitian Pharmace...
12h
Thanks for sharing this resource   